Numerous contemporary artists' work feature in this exhibition including Bridget Riley's wallpaper designs for the Royal Liverpool Hospital, Philip King's Heart sculpture and Dennis Creffield's Autumn Equinox I inspired by JMW Turner.

Aiming to de-mystify contemporary art, this latest exhibition at the Victoria Gallery & Museum features material from the diverse collection of gifts given to the University of Liverpool by the Contemporary Art Society (CAS). Founded by a group of art enthusiasts, the CAS buys from young artists and donates their work to British museums and galleries. As well as supporting artists in the early stages of their careers, the CAS aims for the widest possible access to contemporary art. Central to the exhibition is a wish to engage visitors with contemporary art. To encourage public interaction, visitors to the VG&M have voted on artwork for inclusion in the exhibition. Also on display is art by students from Liverpool Community College and Liverpool Adult Learning Services. Tel: 0151 794 2348 www.liv.ac.uk/vgm Brownlow Hill, Liverpool L69 3DR

The Ragged Trousered Philanthropists

Thu 17 Jun to Sat 10 Jul 2010 7.30pm £10 - £14 (12+)

Enlightening, deeply moving and gloriously funny, Robert Tressell's The Ragged Trousered Philanthropists is a story that has changed countless lives and remains as vivid and as relevant as when it was written almost a century ago.

This story of a group of working men who are joined one day by Owen, a journeyman-prophet with a vision of a just society, is a masterpiece of wit and political passion and one of the most authentic novels of English working class life ever written.

Now one of our greatest playwrights, Howard Brenton, adapts it for the stage in a new production for the Everyman. Christopher Morahan returns after the success of The Caretaker to direct a large ensemble in a vital production filled with energy, humour, passion and music.

This is a Liverpool Everyman and Playhouse and Chichester Festival Theatre co-production.
